Attention High School Artists!

"An Artistic Discovery" provides Members of Congress and the public the opportunity to recognize and encourage the rich artistic talents of young Americans at a time when local cultural organizations and arts-in-education programs are being curtailed.

Each year, Members of Congress conduct local art competitions in their districts. The Second District competition will be on display at Tower Square in Springfield from April 19—30, 2010. The winning piece of art from this competition and those from other congressional districts across the nation will become part of an impressive national display exhibited in the United States Capitol.

The competition is open to high school students only. All art must be ready to be picked up on Thursday, April 15, 2010. Art Teachers or students should contact either of the District Offices listed in this flyer to arrange for a pickup.

Please visit Congressman Neal's website for further information and to download guidelines and entry forms
